Business Summary

This is a wonderful business. The embroidery is subcontracted out, and the only employee is the owners wife for part time bookkeeping. The business markets high end clothing items with advertisers logos to high end clients. These include many national top branded products and franchises. Cutter and Buck is one of the major lines of better shirts the company sells. The owner is able to get inside deals because of his high volume of business with the manufacturer. There is a strong base of repeat customers that are very satisfied with the great quality of the product as well as the fabtastic service, and superior pricing. Now all you have to do is bring this business to the next level. The current owner does minimal marketing. You should bring in a couple sharp sales people and you should easilly double this business and more. If you have the capital, and you are a people person, this could be the business for you.
